BOOKMAKERS AT CHARLESTON ARE HAVING AN UNPROFITABLE EXPERIENCE.

Racing Continues Formful and Winners Are Well
Backed Without Exception—Brig's Brother
Scores in Feature Race at Long Odds.

Charleston, S. C., December 9.—The talent again experienced a profitable session with the twelve layers that did business in the Palmetto Park ring this afternoon. Regardless of whether favorite or outsider won the various races, the bookmaker was meted to a considerable extent. Even the victory of Brig's Brother, an extreme outsider, which carried off the honors in the feature event, was attended by loss to the price-makers. Those who profited most by the McCarren youngster's success were close students of racing who had noted the severe interference that the colt had suffered in a preceding start. The bulk of the support in the race was accorded to the locally-owned Charlestonian, the weight of which backing made him an odds-on favorite. He was probably best, but whatever chance he might have had was ruined by the amateurish handling that McCahey gave him. Brig's Brother, on the other hand, was always clear of interference and dashed past Brave Canardier, which had displaced the speedy Miss Taylor on the stretch turn, and won going away. Brave Canardier held Charlestonian safe in the final drive for second place.

The best backed starter of the meeting to score developed in the closing dash, which Merry Lad won. The winner was supported persistently and closed at 3 to 1, backed down from an opening of 8 to 1. While the horses were at the post for the third race Pulsation began to act fractiously and finally unseated jockey Ward. He later crashed through the fence and injured himself to such an extent that it is doubtful if he will be able to ride. Those who had backed him lost their money, as he was in the hands of the starter.

Tomboy proved best in the opening dash, the good handling that he received from Callahan contributing to his success. McCahey rode Laura in faultless fashion in the second and was largely responsible for her victory over the well-intended Huda's Brother. McTaggart's handling of the favorite, Manson, was in striking contrast. Trade Mark was decidedly best in the third race and only had to develop to get home in front, with Rehest and Young Emblem dividing the minor portions of the purse.

Lace, Ann Tilly and Righteas, backed in the order named, finished in that fashion in the fifth race. Secretary Nathanson this afternoon had notices posted requiring that owners of yearlings promptly list with the secretary the names allowed by the Jockey Club. The distance for the first race for two-olds will be three furlongs. No entries of two-year-olds will be accepted until proof has been received that names have been allowed. Owners, trainers and jockeys were also requested to make their applications for 1914 licenses as soon as possible.

J. A. Strode has fired and gelded the horses Provato and Holton and will give them a rest until next summer. Starter Milton had some trouble with bad actors at the barrier this afternoon and found it necessary to place several on the scheduling list. Of the ten starters that went to the post in the third race six will have to be schooled before their entries will be accepted again. They include Lost Fortune, Trade Mark, El Mahdi, Rehest, Sineco and Grizzle.

Vic Hollar and William Karick were among the arrivals today.

When Pulsation reared up and fell while at the post in the third race he landed squarely on top of his rider, Ward, but the latter escaped with a few scratches. The colt, in bolting through the gap at the sixfurlong post, tore a deep gash just below his stifle and it is doubtful if he will face the barrier again during the meeting.

The frigid weather caused a suspension of training operations to some extent at Palmetto Park this morning. Among the best trials noted were:

Armore—Mile in 1:49.

Brave—Three-quarters in 1:18.

Bryndal—Three-quarters in 1:18 1/2.

THE LATE W. O'B. MACDONOUGH.

Commenting on the death of W. O'B. Macdonough, the San Francisco Breeder and Sportsman says: "The deceased achieved a world-wide reputation as an ardent sportsman, a great lover of thoroughbreds, a deep student of bloodlines, and in this was considered one of the best qualified in American or England. He inherited a love for horses from his father, the late Joseph Macdonough, who always kept good ones, and when this young man was sent to Ireland to complete his studies it was a difficult matter to keep him from attending the hunts and the Carragh of Kildare meetings, where the finest of English and Irish horses compete. On returning to California he purchased a farm back of Menlo Park, adjacent to the La Siesta Stock Farm and the far-famed Palo Alto. He bought the stallions St. Carlos, Sinfax, the Australian stallion Swallow, and a few good mares, and started on a modest scale. The more he studied the breeding problem the more he became convinced that our American thoroughbreds needed more of the best English blood to blend with that which flowed in their veins. It had met other currents which had not improved it. He concluded that he must secure the best stallion money could buy; for the thoroughbred interests in California were then taking on a new lease of life. This was in 1892. On November 1 of that year Mr. Macdonough astonished everybody by sending $150,000 by cable to the Tattersalls, agents for Senior Boscawen of Buenos Ayres, for Ormonde, undefeated race horse and winner of the Derby, Two Thousand and St. Leger Stakes, the greatest of English classic events. And this price was $25,000 more than ever was paid for a horse before, the trotter Aaron having sold for $125,000 and the thoroughbred St. Blaise for $100,000.

"I never forgot an interview I had with him at this time at the Old Bay District, when I heard he had bought this great horse. He was in a remarkably pleasant frame of mind and said, after I had congratulated him on his purchase: 'Yes, I have purchased Ormonde. I saw an item in the "Breeder and Sportsman," taken from the New York "Sporting Times," telling of the departure of Charles Reed, owner of St. Blaise, for Buenos Ayres, whether he went to purchase Ormonde. I then decided to buy the great horse, if possible, and at once opened negotiations by cable looking to his purchase, with the Tattersalls of London. Then I sent Dr. W. G. Ross as fast as steam could carry him to the English metropolis. The success of the doctor you now know, and the bargain was clinched

FREDERICK JOHNSON'S BAND OF MONEY WINNERS

To an owner no sensations are so sweet as the prideful exultation attendant on the possession of a proved high-class race horse. To Frederick Johnson it fell this year to experience such pleasing emotions. Cock o' the Walk was right in the first flight of the three-year-olds of 1913 and victorious in his last five races. It was also his good fortune to have other capital racers in his stable. The pony-built Reybourn developed wonderful form for a horse of his class in the summer racing, although he trained off in the fall. Light O' M' Life was always to be reckoned with in speedy company and there is good reason to expect that his Oddfellow two-year-old, Mr. Sniggs will prove better as a three-year-old than his racing of this year indicated. It will be observed that of the eight horses raced in his name this year five were the progeny of Peep o' Day and right well did they repay his preference. The record of his stable was:

Horse.	Col. and Sex.	Pedigree.	1st.	2d.	3d.	Won.
Cock o' the Walk	ch. c.	By Peep o' Day—Ellangowan	7	2	0	$11,275
Reybourn	b. g.	By Star Shoot—Last Resort	7	2	3	3,080
Light O' M' Life	b. c.	By Peep o' Day—My Gyps	3	4	1	2,840
Mr. Sniggs	br. c.	By Oddfellow—Naulahka	2	2	1	905
Arrington	blk. c.	By Ellsidae—Debater	1	1	2	900

May o' Light	ch. c.	By Peep o' Day—Freya	1	0	0	300
Totals			23	12	7	$20,160

just one day before Tattersalls' option expired. Doubtless several parties would have given this amount for Ormonde, but my agent certainly out-generated them. To Dr. Ross belongs all the credit for engineering this sale and you will please state this in your paper.

"Will you bring Ormonde to America at once?"

"No," he replied, "it would hardly do, as the horse has just completed a heavy season in the stud at Buenos Ayres. Dr. Ross will take Ormonde to England. There about ten gilded mares will be purchased and mated with this horse, and all the animals will not be brought to this country until next June. I consider Ormonde a bargain at $150,000. He has been held at $200,000 for some time. I have figured a great deal on what his progeny will bring at auction."

The following June, Ormonde and the mare selected came to California. Ormonde unfortunately proved a shy breeder; in fact, he was almost impotent. Although bred to the best matrons on Mr. Macdonough's Menlo Park farm and also on the Haggin farm, he only sired a few, but every one proved valuable either on the track or in the stud. Ormonde, however, only lived a few years after coming here. No one ever heard Mr. Macdonough say how disappointed he undoubtedly was. He was the gamiest of men, and wore a smile and was ever ready with a pleasant and encouraging word. He was known to belittle the ~~unsuccessful~~ stallion owner by others; he told the truth about them when asked and always added: "Well, he might sire speed the only way to find this out is to give him a fair trial." Mr. Macdonough, for the small number of mares he had, was a remarkably successful breeder of race horses. His judgment was proven correct in many an instance, and from the farm at Menlo Park he turned out the following winners: Rulhart, Zamar II., Brunswick, Hainault, St. Calatine, Joan Count of Flanders, St. Outbert, Socialist, Carmelina, Ormonde, Orsini, Ossary, Bear Ormonde, Orellana, Rosomonde, Honiton, Ormonde's Right, George C. Bennett, Saracinesca, Organdie, Orfeo, Jimmy Maher, Orchan, Duke of Milan, Listowel, Shilfred, May L. N., Oran, Bellatrix, Little Red, Nancy W., Reformation, Woodlander, Golden Oriole, Argonaut, Middle, Osoline, Ailsa Page, Sir Ormonde, Gold Lace, Kaiser, Alencon, Tres Pinos, Gold Beater and several others racing in America and England today.

Mr. Macdonough made many trips to the east and to England, where he was at all times received most cordially, and he was a gentlemanly and well-informed man. He was remarkably simple and unassuming in manner and entirely approachable. The poorest on the race track, if they knew him, were always certain to receive aid if needed; the only injunction he offered was, "Please don't mention this." He loved art and the first one to give that great cartoonist, the late Homer Davenport, encouragement when the latter, without money or friends, arrived in this city from Oregon. He brought him to his farm and for six weeks employed him in making pen and ink sketches of his best horses, and these he valued highly to the day of his death. He was one of the late C. Bruce Lowe's most valued friends and tendered him the use of his fine library and made his visit a most enjoyable one during his short stay here, before leaving for England to publish his book on "Breeding Race Horses by the Figure System," a standard publication.

For several years Mr. Macdonough has been gradually closing out his band of thoroughbreds by holding sales in the east and in England, and has not purchased any to replace them, for he saw that the demand for them was decreasing, and also that the men who were formerly interested in the breeding problem were drifting away from it.

He never married. He leaves a sister, Mrs. A. E. Agar, of New York; a brother, Joseph, of this city, and his great grief was to mourn his loss. As a member of the Pacific Union and several other clubs he was always active and now that he has gone to join the vast majority, of which all of us must sooner or later be a part, we will miss him. Some one has said: "He sleeps beneath the shadow of the clouds, careless alike of sunshine and of storm, in the windowless palace of rest." There we will leave him and go our ways, carrying naught but the memory of his gentle manner, engaging smile, his winning voice, and the good he accomplished in elevating the thoroughbred interests of California.

MIMORIOSO AND HIS OWNER.

The Juarez correspondent of the New York Sun writes entertainingly of the recent record-equating performance of Mimorioso and his owner in the following strain:

"Mimorioso is not a Whisk Broom, neither is he a Rock View, a Ten Point or a Cock o' the Walk, but that he possesses a superabundance of that essential racing qualification—speed—is the opinion of all that have witnessed his races since the Juarez meeting opened.

"On Thanksgiving Day Mimorioso finished a bang-up second to Pan Zareta and would surely have won but for early interference. In his next essay he smothered his opposition with speed and won with plenty to spare in 1:37 1/2, which equals the track record held by Bourbon Beau. So easily did Mimorioso win that experts could hardly believe he had accomplished the distance in such remarkable time, and it was the consensus of opinion that had jockey Woods so desired the horse could easily have shaded 37."

The history of Mimorioso, his general conformation and his surprising improvement again clearly demonstrate that racing has many angles that prove its glorious uncertainties. Mimorioso was bred by J. N. Camden of Kentucky, and as a two-year-old at Coeur d'Alene he won a couple of cheap races. At that time he was trained by Ham Keene. Keene sold the colt to Seymour Veiller, better known to turfmen as "Skilly," for $200, and in "Skilly's" hands the son of Mazagan has improved so that now many clever horsemen would back him against any man's horse.

Mimorioso probably is as scrappy a thoroughbred as one ever saw. He doesn't weigh over 850 pounds and has a "rat mane" and if brought into a sale ring with his racing qualities unknown would hardly bring $100. But in action he races like a Colin, has an exceptionally easy gait and strides magni-cently. The fractional time of his remarkable mile record was a sparkling performance—23 1/2, 46 1/2, 1:14 1/2, 1:37 1/2. He broke second and after the first three and a half furlongs took the lead and won by two lengths unfurled.

"Speaking of Mimorioso calls to mind that his owner, "Skilly," although a member of the far western racing colony for over a decade, is well known to New York race people and particularly those who visited California in the heyday of the sport. "Skilly" was assistant to Bob McGibben, and it was "Skilly" who furnished the bookmakers with chalk, rubbers, pencils and other appurtenances. "Skilly" became an owner more as a joke, but today he owns besides Mimorioso several other handy horses. Hianata, a 1 to 1 shot winner at Juarez, is a member of his racing aggregation, and like Mimorioso, is also by Mazagan and is a cast-off of the Camden Stud."

NOTES OF THE TURF.

Christmas Eve has developed into a bleeder. Society Bird has been added to the schooling list at Juarez.

Quick Trip, Bluecar, Cu Bon and Chilton Trance are the latest additions to the schooling list at Juarez.

Beragon, a brown colt by Multiform—Wigemar, as the champion of the year-old in Australia this season. He has won both of the important Derbys. The totalizer turnover for the two days of the recent Auckland Racing Club's meeting in New Zealand, was $252,610, $30,000 more than last year. The owner and rider of Posinatus, the winner, each received $2,500 out of one of "Tattersalls's" weeps, conducted in Australia, on the Melbourne Cup. The trainer of Ulva's Isle came in for some place money.

More than 50,000 people saw last month's running of the Melbourne Cup. Of these 33,000 paid a shilling to view the running of the race from the infield, which previously had been free of charge on such occasions.

A New Zealand owner has just been ruled off for life in Australia for running one of his horses in a race with heavy steel plates in front painted to resemble aluminum. The horse was favorite and finished third. The stewards were not satisfied with his showing and made an investigation before the animal was unsaddled.

Geza Janek is champion jockey in Austria-Hungary this season, his successes totaling 80. He has several times been prominent in the list, and headed it four years ago with nineteen more wins than he has scored this year. Janek is having some difficulty with his weight, and can rarely get down below 124 pounds. The leading owner of this year in Austria-Hungary is Mr. V. von Mautner, who has secured 69 races worth $136,000, second going to Baron Springer, who has taken 58 races, worth $100,000.

HOODWINKING OLD-TIME TOUTS.

Lord George Bentinck held touts in great abhorrence and took great pains to hoodwink and deceive them. He once directed Prince, the trainer of Preserve, which ran second in Lord Grenville's name, although the sole property of his first cousin, Lord George Bentinck himself, to Queen of Trumps for the Oaks of 1835, to bind that filly's forelegs with bandages, to paint her nostrils red, so as to give the impression that she had a broken blood vessel, and to resort to all sorts of dodges and tricks in order to take in the horse-watchers.

His ingenuity did not prevent Preserve from starting for the Oaks with odds of 7 to 4 on her, and, as in many cases of persons who are particularly clever, she just got beaten.

On another occasion Lord George's sharpness did not again avail to put him on his guard against an old woman with a basket on her arm who was engaged in gathering mushrooms on Goodwood Downs while an important trial of a lot of his Lordship's horses was going on. It is hardly necessary to add that the old woman was a masculine tout, dressed up in that disguise.

Harry Stebbins, the trainer, once got on the blind side of the tout in 1848. One moonlight night he gave a supper in his house on Black Hambleton to the touts who were detailed to watch his horses, and the head lad and Basshaw, the stable jockey, slipped out unseen, whilst supper was going on, and tried Mr. Green's Flatcatcher for the Two Thousand. The horse won the gallop and the Newmarket race, too, thus landing a nice stake for the stable.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES.

B. G. B., Louisville, Ky. If the Butler yearlings have been named their names have not as yet been disclosed.

J. T. M., St. Louis, Mo. The parlay was void as to injury because there was no separate place price and won on Janus and Miss Sly at 8 to 1.

D. H., Pittsburgh, Pa. In syndicate betting it occurs now and then that identical prices are laid against two horses. Sea Cliff and Ocean Queen ran in different ownerships.

G. B. S., Chicago. Your definition of "within a year" is abstractly correct. But in the case in point a bet was made December 4 that Briar Path had not won two races within a year. Unless there was some understanding to the contrary, the meaning of that bet would be held to be that she had not won two races within a year of December 4, 1913. And she had not.

GOOD PROGRESS ON WOODBINE STAND.

Toronto, Ont., December 9.—The erection of the steel work of the double-decked public grandstand at Woodbine is completed except for a few days' riveting. When finished it will be the finest stand on the Canadian circuit and one of the finest on any race track in America. The members' stand will also be removed next year and the present new structure continued to replace the members' stand.

AMERICAN RECORDED

ORB RUNS THREE-QUARTERS OF MILE IN
1:10 1/2 IN WINNING JUAREZ RACE.

Time Represents a New Mark for the Juarez Track —Foundation Wins His First Purse for Jefferson Livingston in Fast Time.

El Paso, Tex., December 9.—Orb, Dr. I. E. Clark's two-year-old son of Luck and Charity and Jessie Mae, reduced the Juarez track record for three-quarters of a mile this afternoon in winning the Chapala Handicap, and equaled the American record of 1:10 1/2 made at Louisville by Iron Mask on September 23, last. Orb made all of his own pace and stood steady in the final sixteenth of the race with rare gameness. Mimorioso was rapidly closing in on the record-breaker in the final fifty yards of the race. This is the second Texas-bred horse to equal an American record at the Juarez course within the last three days.

Jefferson Livingston's colors were seen in front for the first time during the meeting when his three-year-old colt, Foundation, favored by good racing luck, defeated the speedy Vested Rights in a seven-furlong race run in 1:24 1/2.

Two carloads of horses arrived today from California. Among them were the stables of W. H. Dupee, with nine head; T. P. Schwartz, with three; F. Daumen, Jr., with three; Walter S. Heath, with three; Powers & Smith, with two, and George Miller, with one.

Mack B. Eubank, winner of the fifth race, was bid up by B. L. Smith from $300 to $700 and was retained with the customary advance of $5 by owner C. W. Gasser.

Recent work-outs of horses in training at Juarez were as follows:

EVADING THE INCOME TAX IN AUSTRALIA.

A case that might be of more than passing interest to others in a similar position came before the Prahran Court in Melbourne, when Thomas E. Smith, described as a tailor, bookmaker, bettor and race horse owner, was charged with having made false income tax returns for the year 1910, 1911 and 1912. W. M. Desmond, income tax assessor, produced correspondence and detailed conversations he had with defendant in regard to his incomes, but counsel for the defendant objected to the evidence of this witness on the ground that it was pledged to secrecy except for the purposes of the Act. The objection, however, was overruled by the bench, who claimed that the purposes of the Act were responsible for the hearing of the case. Continuing, Mr. Desmond read numerous documents and quoted a lot of figures. Counsel for the defense contended that there had been no concealment, though defendant was under the impression that he was not taxable for money won on a race course. Mr. Morrison, P. M., said that because a man was a tailor it would be an insult to one's intelligence to say that his earnings on a race course should not be included in his income, and fined defendant $125, with costs, in each of the three charges; whilst he was also ordered to pay double tax for each of the three years mentioned. Defendant's solicitor announced his intention of appealing against the decision.—Sydney Referee.

AIMING TO REDUCE FIELDS.

At a recent meeting of the Board of Management of the Associated Racing Clubs, it was decided that a compulsory sweepstakes of 10 shillings should accompany nominations for all future events, such sweepstakes to be added to the prize money. This action was taken, no doubt, with the object of reducing to some extent the unwieldy fields that have for some time past been left in various events at meetings of the clubs forming the association, and the compulsory running in divisions of which has been responsible for such an excess of racing. These 12 to 14 event programs have nothing to recommend them, and the fact of those in control having laid themselves out to modify this excess will be generally appreciated by most patrons of these meetings. The 10 shilling sweepstakes will not meet with the approval of some owners and trainers, who may not always be prepared to give their charges a run under such conditions, the effect of which will be that fields for many races which, under the old conditions would necessitate resorting to divisions will in future be reduced to normal dimensions. Were bigger fields productive of more interest or better sport, this action might be deemed inadvisable, but this is not so; on the contrary, fields of moderate dimensions are invariably responsible for more speculation and better racing.—Sydney Referee.

DECISION ON A BREEDING QUESTION.

It will be remembered that a question recently arose as to who was to be recognized as the breeder of Castalla, and therefore, entitled to the $125, for which the conditions of the Avondale Stakes provided. After a discussion lasting an hour and a half, the committee of the Avondale Jockey Club decided: "That the breeder of Castalla be defined as the owner who selects or chooses the sire to mate with the mare." This ruling is in distinct opposition to that of the Australian Jockey Club, which provides that "the owner of the dam of the winner at the date of the foaling shall be deemed to be the breeder of the winner." The matter is, however, almost sure to be referred to the New Zealand Conference, and it will be interesting to see what view that authority adopts.—Sydney Referee.
